

Music Production Requirements

Live Audition

The live audition allows you to explore the school and get to know some of the faculty. For the Music Production program, you will have a sit down interview with the Music Production Department Chair or another Music Production faculty member. The interview consists questions about your production background, professional goals, academic experience, and spiritual walk. You need to bring a written explanation of your previous experience in audio production. You should also bring a CD or digital copy of any production you have worked on, if applicable. While previous recording experience is not a requirement, it does bolster you application and the possibility of acceptance.
